

National Track Bits From Jody

With a majority of the pros at today's Hangtown Media Day, we caught up with Jody and the crew to see how the track is progressing. All of the track fencing is now complete, and the Triple Step-Up has been tested several times - including last week's pro practice. The last thing to go in will be the sand in front of the finish line by the grand stands. By next Wednesday, the Glen Helen track will be 98% complete for the FMF Glen Helen National.

Chad Reed Putting in Work

Chad Reed came out and took advantage of the light crowd at practice today. Although he may not be in the Nationals this year, it was good to see him out using the track for testing.

Original Artwork Now at GH Museum

Today Tom White and Jon Ortner (artist) got to talk about the painting that inspired this year's official FMF Glen Helen National poster. The commemorative painting will be displayed in the new Glen Helen Museum.

Get an official poster autographed by painter Jon Ortner and legendary Torsten Hall at our Pre-Race party on Friday, May 27th.

JOIN EVENT

Grandstand Seating Options Are Available

Want a great spot to relax and enjoy the FMF Glen Helen National? We have two grandstand seating options that offer great views of the track. Our General Grandstand Seating is located in the Hall-of-Fame area, near the Glen Helen Museum. For an exciting view, our Premier Grandstands is located next to the FMF Power Jump (Triple Step-Up). Grandstand tickets will be available for purchase at the information booth on race day, or you can buy them online here.

We're on Snapchat

Add us on Snapchat for behind-the-scene clips and pictures of our prep for the FMF Glen Helen National! Be sure you try out our Glen Helen Snapchat Geofilter when you're at the National on race day. Add us today, @glenhelensnap.

